EARLY START ON PATRICIA BAY HIGHWAY IS SEEN

Minister of Public Works Addresses Sidney Parley

Construction of the speed highway from Victoria to Patricia Bay Airport is at last in sight.

Addressing the North Saanich Progressive Conservative Association on Monday evening Hon. E. C. Carson, provincial minister of public works, stated: "We have information leading us to believe that we should have official confirmation allowing us to proceed with the Patricia Bay highway within the next few days."

Mr. Carson and Major-General G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P., both laid stress on the importance of the highway in the event of failure to reach a peaceful solution of the troubles in the Far East. Speaking of the rumors that the federal government was not going to co-operate in the construction of the new road, the general stated: "It amazes me that the federal government should say we can't go ahead with it at this time. Now is the time when the road should be straightened out."

The federal member for the Nanaimo riding pointed out that if the situation in the east should worsen, there would be all the more need for fast communication between Victoria and the airport.

Two Routes
Mr. Carson remained his audience that the road would take two years to construct. "It is a job that has been on my mind for years," he said. Originally the problem was which of two routes to take. The one route would take a new course almost entirely.

The other would follow the old interurban railway tracks. The alternative was a reconstruction of the present road, ironing out the curves and bad places in the road. Partly because the existing road is about a mile and a half shorter and in part to respect the businesses that are already flourishing on the road, the government elected to take the latter course.

Since this decision was made the provincial government has awaited the approval of the plans by Ottawa, explained the minister.

The audience heard a comprehensive description of the difficulties facing the province in the construction of adequate arterial roads. It is popularly believed that all we have to do is construct these roads. Many suggestions are received by his department, said the minister, but they are mostly from uninformed persons.

Large Area
In this province, explained Mr. Carson, there are 365,000 square miles of territory, larger than Washington, Oregon, California and part of Nevada. The population is slightly over a million. Already there are 22,000 miles of highway in B.C., exclusive of the roads and streets in the municipalities and cities. There are also 5,000 miles of access roads and mining trails. A further difficulty facing the department, said Mr. Carson, is that the terrain in B.C. is the worst in the whole continent of North America for the construction of roads.

To illustrate his comments on the cost of construction Mr. Carson cited the case last fall when the department called for tenders for the construction of a road in the Fraser Canyon. The length of the road was nine miles. The lowest bid was $364,000. Included in that nine-mile stretch are seven bridges.

White Line
The white lines on the highways cost the province $100,000 each year, commented Mr. Carson. Stating that the improved roads assist the motorist in reducing his maintenance costs, Mr. Carson offered his audience a vicious circle. He explained that it had been estimated that the difference to the average motorist between driving on gravel and poor roads and using first grade finished highways amounted to about two cents a mile. He pointed out that if the gasoline tax were increased it would enable the department to build better roads, which would enable the roads to be used with less damage to traffic, which would reduce individual running costs, which would pay for the increased gasoline tax.

The speakers were addressing the North Saanich association at St. Andrew's Hall, Sidney, on Monday evening, Dec. 11. President of the association, Bert Bath, was in the chair and spoke briefly, introducing the guests. A vote of thanks to the speakers was moved by W. J. Skinner.

SCHOOLS CLOSE DECEMBER 19
Pupils in local schools will be given ample time to contemplate the preparation for Christmas when they commence their holidays on Tuesday, Dec. 19. A greater opportunity to recover from the seasonal festivities will be enjoyed by the pupils between Christmas and Jan. 3, when the schools reopen.

HOW KEATING WAS NAMED
(By Old Timer)
Now that the name of the new municipality, which will be our next door neighbor, has apparently been settled, I think I can inform your readers how "Keating" and "Keating Cross Road" received their names.

A man named Keating arrived from the Old Country a short time before the construction of the Victoria and Sidney Highway, and purchased a tract of land, I think, all covered with heavy timber, where are now grown some of the best fruits on the Peninsula.

His Stipulation
He made it a condition that if he allowed the railway to cross his land, without compensation, the railway would have to build a station on his land and call it "Keating." This was agreed to and a shed was built in the bush. I don't think there was even a road to it.

Later this gentleman left the district and a station was built on the Keating Cross Road, near the Saanich Fruit Growers' Warehouse. This road, I submit, should have received the name of Butler's Cross Road, as they, I believe, were the original settlers on it and a number of the Butler family still live along it.

A SKETCH IS PRESENTED

NO possible doubt remains, Glamis Castle has come to stay. When The Review announced that the famous old castle was to be thrown open to the public, there was no warning that the announcement was to be a bone of contention between The Review and the Scots. The suggestion that Glamis was in Aberdeenshire was reproduced in all good faith.

Gladly did The Review return the office to Angus, where it belongs. It was too late. The Scots were aroused as never before. With the same Scottish ardor that made porridge famous the clansmen have launched innumerable attacks against the voice that dared to move an ancient Scottish monument.

Happy Clansmen
George Menclaws, of Quicens Avenue, has arrived at the root of the matter. A wizard with a pencil, Mr. Menclaws has presented The Review with a sketch, depicting two cheery, killed Highlanders carrying Glamis Castle on a plank. The beholder is impressed with the hirsute ostentation of strength that is to be seen in every stroke. Beneath the sketch runs the legend, "Forfar! There's nae siccian a place noo, we're carrying it into Angus, whaur it belongs!"

Adherents of the thistle, who are seething under the injustice that has been done to Scotland, may well cool off upon recognizing the basis of the matter that has been so ably depicted by Mr. Menclaws.

The drawing now hangs in an honored spot on The Review wall, where it may be seen and acclaimed by Highlanders now residing here.

SIGNS MUST COME DOWN

The natural beauty of British Columbia is great interest to Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works. Answering an enquiry by C. S. Goode, of Sidney, with regard to the removal of signs in the area, the minister stated that he had always been interested in maintaining the beauty of the country. "The subject is dear to my heart," he said. Although in many cases a sign is not in itself and eyesore it is leading up to the time when another sign may be erected in competition. This competitive spirit encourages the disfigurement of the countryside, continued Mr. Carson.

The regulations have been in force for several years, added the minister, but have been carried out with varying degrees of effectiveness in different parts of the province. To ensure the removal of those signs which are a disfigurement, "you had to be pretty severe," said Mr. Carson.

Order Received
The question arose from an order which has been received by many merchants in the district, ordering them to remove certain signs from their premises. Mr. Goode explained that a representative of the department of public works had ordered him to remove a sign from his store. Upon being questioned as to the reason, the official stated that he did not know the reason, but that it was on the minister's orders.

They Enjoyed Their Visit in England
People Carrying On Valiantly Following War

Although reports of life in Britain have been prominent in every kind of publication in this country since the end of the Second World War, few references have been made to the staff of life in Britain.

Frederick W. Plant, of Towner Park Road, Sidney, recently returned with Mrs. Plant from a two months holiday in England. His reactions to life in his native land were a mixture of sympathy and regret. Many people have referred to the conditions which he observed, he reflected, but none has mentioned the bread that is the daily diet in Britain today. A grey, dry, sour confection, that is as unpleasant to the palate as it is unattractive to the eye, bread in Britain today is a travesty of white bread, recalled Mr. Plant.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Plant could find words to express their regret at the condition prevailing in that country today. Despite the lack of supplies and the restricted diet of the people both travellers were impressed with the healthy appearance of the children in Britain. Everywhere in all parts of the country, the children look healthy and fit. Mr. and Mrs. Plant attributed the condition of the children to the fact that they are universally receiving many items of food that are denied to their elders. Adequacy of milk and a supply of fruit juice, in addition to fruit, is available to children at school. The same feature was not noticeable in the adult population. Many men appeared pale and thin; particularly those engaged in sedentary occupations. The visitors observed that this was possibly due to the lack of meat available in Britain today. A week's supply of meat is equivalent to a small lamb chop.

Outstanding feature of the changing face of Britain was the attitude of the people, said Mr. Plant. In his younger days, he continued, a London caddy would invariably make an offensive remark if a passenger asked for the net fare. Today every cab is provided with a card stating the increased fares. The taximeter has not been brought up-to-date and the passenger is obliged to calculate his fare from the table.

On several occasions Mr. Plant asked what the fare was and received a courteous reply. The change in the attitude of London's cab drivers was a considerable and pleasant surprise to him.

He remarked that everyone, railway porters, customs officials, people in post offices, banks and shops, taxi drivers and busmen were very friendly and helpful. He observed that this particularly applied to the bus crews. Traveling around the various places they visited they had ample opportunity to talk with the drivers and conductors of buses. All were most helpful and courteous, he remarked.

Visiting in Folkestone, Cheltenham and Sheffield, the Towner Park couple gained an insight into life in a representative cross-section of the country. Besides London, they were able to gain an impression of life in the essentially residential areas of Folkestone and Cheltenham and the industrial centre of Sheffield. In general they were impressed with the appearance of the heavily-bombed areas and the lack of apparent after-effect on those who experienced the ordeal of air-raids. Although they spoke to many who had resided in the great cities during the raids they showed a brave effort to hide the nervous strain they had suffered. Few residents of the heavily-bombed areas paid attention to the ruins, remarked Mrs. Plant. They have become accustomed to them.

The medical scheme, although suffering from an avalanche of petty troubles, is expected to iron itself out with the passage of time. One of the main disadvantages of the health scheme, Mrs. Plant opined, is the fact that the doctor is obliged to spend so much time on the examination of petty sickness that he has no time to visit those who are too ill to report to his office. Every worker who is sick requires the furnishing of a chit to produce to his employer. The additional paper work attached to the provision of such chits is very nearly a full day's work for the average doctor, explained the visitors.

Named

W. E. POUPORE

A Sidney man, W. E. Poupore, has been named returning officer of the Central Saanich municipal elections on January 13. His appointment was confirmed by the provincial cabinet this week.

A FAREWELL LETTER

A "farewell" communication was received at the Monday evening meeting of trustees of Saanich School District No. 63, from Mrs. E. M. Bryce, of Royal Oak, veteran member of the board who is retiring at the end of this year. Mrs. Bryce pointed out that her retirement has been prompted by indifferent health. She deeply regretted to break her long and pleasant association with the board, she said. She recalled with pleasure the co-operation she had always received from other trustees and the school staffs.

General regret was voiced by the trustees at the loss of the services of Mrs. Bryce.

Building Plans
Chairman P. E. Thorp reported to the board that rapid progress is being made by the school architects in completing plans for new schools which will be erected in 1951. He hoped that it would be possible to call for tenders for the construction of Sansbury Elementary School by Christmas. Contracts will be let for sanitary installations in existing schools soon after the New Year and this work should be completed by Easter. Final report from Trustee R. A. Sansbury, who has supervised maintenance of the district's schools, was received. The buildings generally were in a very fair state of repair and considerably better than they had been following the Second Great War, he said.

AIRPORT LAND TO BE LEASED

Corner property on West Saanich and Mills Road is offered for rental on a five year lease by the Department of Transport. The property is the north-west corner of the airport land. The land is 20 acres in extent and includes that lying around Holy Trinity Church, but not the church property. It is to be leased for agricultural purposes.

MADE HASTE SLOWLY

D. R. Johnson, well-known Sidney fish vendor, has his own views on the "Otter" which formerly plied these waters. He is certain that the vessel was operating in 1928 for he sailed from Ganges to Victoria on her in that year. The voyage required 17 hours.

BODY FOUND IN OTTER BAY

Curiosity of North Pender residents regarding the whereabouts of local boatbuilder Elmer Antlin was rudely answered last Thursday evening when his body was found in Otter Bay.

No enquiries had been made, despite his three weeks' absence, because it was his custom to absent himself from home for prolonged periods.

I.C.M.P. detachment at Ganges, who investigated the discovery of the body, stated that he was about 60 years of age.

ELECTION IN CENTRAL SAANICH MUNICIPALITY ON SATURDAY, JAN. 13

Two Seek Reeve's Seat PICKLES AND THORP PLAN TO CONTEST FIRST ELECTION

An election in Central Saanich is assured for Saturday, Jan. 13. Two ratepayers of the new municipality area have announced to The Review their intentions of contesting the election for the reeve's chair. They are:

Sydney Pickles, president of the Ward Six Ratepayers' Association.

Percy Thorp, chairman of the board of Saanich School District No. 63 and president of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce.

No resident of the district has yet informed The Review that his hat is in the ring for the post of councillor. A number of names are prominently mentioned, however, and it seems likely that more than four candidates will seek office. Only one reeve and four councillors will be elected.

Mr. Thorp informed The Review that he will spend Christmas at the home of his son, Robert, in Redwood City, California. Mrs. Thorp has just been discharged from hospital and they will motor south as soon as her health permits. The candidate will return early in the New Year to conduct his election campaign.

Mr. Pickles stated that he will remain here during the Yule season and prepare for the election early in the New Year.

GIFTS ARE PRESENTED

Retiring members of the board of trustees of School District No. 63 were honored at the final 1950 meeting of the board on Monday evening of this week.

Members of the board made pleasing presentations to R. A. Sansbury, of Sidney; George Ross, of Cordova Bay; and Mrs. E. M. Bryce, of Royal Oak, the latter being absent through illness.

Mr. Sansbury, whose gift was presented by Miss R. Simpson, of Deep Cove, looked briefly back over the 14 years he had served on the board, voicing the satisfaction he derived from having assisted young people of this district to enter a competitive world with others from different parts of Canada.

Mr. Ross, after receiving a gift from N. McNaughtan, of James Island, emphasized that he had acquired valuable knowledge while serving on the board.

The brief program was presided over by Chairman P. E. Thorp. Trustee S. S. Penny pointed out that the loss to the board of the experience of the retiring trustees is a real one.

Cabinet Action On Tuesday Paves Way For Organization of Seceding Area

Saanich Peninsula history was written on Tuesday morning of this week when the provincial cabinet gave approval to four orders-in-council and letters patent authorizing the incorporation of the new municipality of Central Saanich. The new municipality area embraces a territory four miles long and four miles wide which was formerly Ward Six of Saanich Municipality.

W. E. Poupore, of Sidney, was named returning officer for the forthcoming municipal elections in Central Saanich. He was directed to advertise the election on December 22.

Nomination day will be Thursday, Jan. 4, at the Saanich Post Office.

Election date is Saturday, Jan. 13. Polling stations will be established at the following points:

W.I. Hall at Brentwood.
Farmers' Institute Hall at Keating.
Orange Hall at Saanichton.

To Meet Jan. 16

A reeve and four councillors will be elected at the polls and the orders-in-council direct that their first meeting shall be on Tuesday, January 16.

Population of the embryo Central Saanich, sandwiched between Saanich Municipality and the unorganized North Saanich territory, is approximately 2,000 men, women and children. There are in the neighborhood of 900 ratepayers.

Principal industry is specialized agriculture. Berries and small fruits are grown in abundance. Seed and bulb farming is profitable. There are many poultry farms while dairy farms and fur farms are numerous. The B.C. Electric Co. power station near Brentwood is the largest industrial plant while Springwood Pharmaceuticals Ltd. laboratory on Mount Newton Cross Road is a growing commercial enterprise and a large employer of labor.

Is Jubilant

Sydney Pickles, president of the Ward Six Ratepayers' Association, and who has sparked the successful secession movement, was jubilant on Tuesday.

"The 40-year-old struggle by Ward Six to obtain municipal independence has at last become an accomplished fact," he declared.

"Many Ward Six ratepayers, some of whom have unfortunately passed on, have contributed to this successful conclusion and they are deserving a share of the credit. The last eight years has seen the longest period of persistent effort, during which there were many periods of disappointment and despair in some minds. But dogged determination to continue our efforts in spite of the difficulties, has paid off."

"As president of the Ward Six Ratepayers' Association during the past eight years I wish on behalf of the ratepayers of Ward Six to express our appreciation for the efforts of the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Hon. R. C. Macdonald, in bringing this long outstanding matter to a final conclusion."

"Our appreciation is also expressed for the able assistance given by B. C. Brucewell, the deputy minister of municipal affairs, and our legal adviser, Lloyd MacKenzie, in preparing the various complicated legal documents which have been necessary and have caused a few grey hairs during recent weeks."

"As the ratepayers of Ward Six have paid for all municipal services from Saanich until December 31 next, it is expected that the Saanich Municipality will continue to provide such services until the end of the year. As the first Central Saanich Municipal council meeting will take place on January 16, in accordance with

High School Play Draws Fire

What type of plays should be selected as vehicles for the stage talents of students in Saanich school district?

This question was raised at Monday evening's meeting of school trustees in the Sidney board room.

At a church concert recently, students of North Saanich High School had appeared in a play. The acting of the pupils was outstanding but one trustee branded the choice of play as "deplorable."

"Usually when I have seen our students appearing in plays I have been very proud," he declared. "On this occasion I was very ashamed of being associated with our schools." He could not remember the name of the play but recalled that the serving of potatoes at the dinner table left much to be desired.

The matter was finally left with Trustee S. S. Penny who was requested to look into the matter of the choice of plays.

Pretty Wedding In Sidney Church

Grace May, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Adams, 712
Amelia Avenue, Sidney, B.C., became the bride of Donald James Rourke, only son of Mr. and Mrs.
William Rourke, recently, when Rev. Roy Melville officiated at the ceremony in St. Andrew's Church, Sidney.

Chrysanthemums and fall flowers created the setting. The wedding march was played by Mrs.
Webb.

The bride was attractive in an old rose gabardine suit. The coat opened over a pale pink jabot blouse. She wore grey and pink accessories and a bouquet corsage of talisman roses and heather. She carried a white prayer book from which hung tiny streamers of real orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a diamond and amethyst bracelet worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day.

She was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Elizabeth Ilett, sister of the bride was her only attendant and wore a teal blue gabardine suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white carnations. The groom chose Peter Greig as his best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, set with tiny vases of pink and white carnations, with pink and white lighted tapers. Cecil H.
Holt proposed the toast to the bride. Albert A. Moore proposed the toast to the bride's mother, and Peter Greig proposed the toast to the groom's mother. The bride and groom left on the midnight boat for Vancouver and Seattle.

December 8.

The hall was beautifully decorated sage of Talisman roses by her niece, Mary Ann Reynolds, and at the same time Mrs. Thomson received a like corsage from her granddaughter, Laura Waterman, while the guests sang "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. Thomson presented her daughter with a beautiful cedar activities were fully discussed.

Mrs. H. Bickford and G. Nancar-row were appointed to arrange refreshments for the Christmas card party and children's party. Mrs.
R. Nimmo will supervise the card party refreshments, assisted by ten members of the Girls' Junior announced that Santa Claus in will be presented to the winning team of midjet girls in a round robin inter-club match. Following the meeting the men of the club acted as hosts in serving refreshments, much to the amusement of the ladies. Bert Bickford "poured" a little shakily, it was noted, assisted by Morley Bickford and Mr.

Drake, in serving. Paper cups were used, as the hosts explained that "dishpan hands" were detrimental to a person's appearance.
The meeting was adjourned by two ladies of the club.In the first six months of this

A HAPPY SEASON

ONE of the happiest seasons of the year is approaching. And during the week of Christmas and New Year's many visitors from other points will be entertained here. This district is well-known as an hospitable one. There will be many guests to enjoy the hospitality of our homes and their well laden tables.

This brings up a thought which we should keep in mind despite the extremely busy days which are ahead of us. Every visitor here gains an impression of life in this area. A few minutes spent passing on the pleasure to be gained from establishing residence in this district may pay rich dividends.

This area is highly favored from a geographic and climatic standpoint. It will some day become the riviera of western Canada. Fine new modern homes will spring up all over the district just as rapidly as our permanent population increases.

Let us not allow the Christmas and New Year's season to pass without getting a little spade work in. Every guest who returns to his home community impressed with the thought that this section of the world is a desirable place to live can result in more than one family moving here.

SHE SERVED WELL

MRS. E. M. BRYCE, of Royal Oak, can derive a lot of satisfaction from the contribution she has made to the youth of the Saanich Peninsula.

The veteran school trustee is retiring from the board of Saanich School District No. 63 at the end of this year because of failing health. During her long years of service in the field of education, Mrs. Bryce has had one thought constantly in mind—what is best for the youth of the community.

Task of a school trustee is not an enviable one. As a class trustees are unpaid, unhonored and unsung. The public is quick to criticize them but slow to praise them. In her retirement Mrs. Bryce can reflect on the good work she has done.

NEWS AND VIEWS

THE Review was roundly upbraided this week. Just at the time when our clan war with the Scots was subsiding, we ran head-long into trouble with the English.

It all started over a news policy of The Review. Our plan is to present for Review readers each week as much interesting and newsy material as possible. Many residents of this area travel considerably. On their return we make it a point of calling on them, securing their views of distant places and presenting them for the entertainment and enlightenment of our readers.

If a resident visited Afghanistan, we would interview him, secure his views on his travels and publish them. If he reported Afghanistan was a veritable paradise on earth, we would quote him in that way. If his view was to the contrary, we'd follow the same policy. The news columns of this newspaper will never reflect the views of The Review. They will always be found solely in its editorial columns. This same principle is followed by every other reputable newspaper throughout the land.

Some months ago a gentleman, who has resided in Sidney for many years and who is highly esteemed in his community, visited his native land, England. On his return he was interviewed by The Review. Some of the things this gentleman had to say about his native land were not complimentary. But they were his views and we published them without comment.

More recently a well respected lady from Brentwood also visited the same country. She, too, was born there. On her return she was good enough to agree to an interview by The Review. We were delighted to publish her views, regardless of what they were. Strangely enough they agreed with the impressions formed by the Sidney man. In fact she felt more strongly on the subject than did he.

The Review, as a result, has been charged with being anti-English. Nothing could be farther from the truth. But we'd be in a very unenviable position if we had invited the views of this particular gentleman and lady and twisted them into something entirely different. The views were theirs and they were fully entitled to them. The Review is exceedingly grateful to them both for assisting us in our community work of the free exchange of views.

Now let's get the view of The Review straight on England. It is a country with a noble heritage. It has sent its sons and daughters to make a valuable contribution to the development of this area and many others throughout the world. Whether or not the people of England today gamble to excess, we do not know. Whether store clerks are courteous or rude, we have no way of knowing. We have seen many spotlessly clean windows in England in bygone days and sincerely hope that they are still in the same condition. But we cannot conscientiously say in which condition they may be found today.

But we have one suggestion to offer. If the sons of England would care to donate to a fund at The Review office, the entire proceeds to be used for the transportation of a representative of this paper to England and back, we'd be more than pleased to present our own individual view on England today. And we'll promise to present a strictly unbiased report.

And in the meantime we're going to continue our present policy of presenting uncensored news to our readers.

... Letters To The Editor ...

MARGARINE
Editor, Review.

In your issue of November 20, 1950, you quote a most illuminating article from St. Thomas Times-Journal on the use of margarine. It is a most timely comment, but lacks point and emphasis.

Surely the time has come when "We, the people," should look at this business of margarine. I was brought up on a farm. My sympathies are all with those who work for a living. But I am not in favor of monopolies. It is the monopolistic feature of the anti-margarine campaign to which I object most strongly.

Co-operation is a great thing in any line of work, in any industry. No business can hope to get far without it. In these high pressure days, but what a sight it is to see the Canadian Federation of Agriculture holding the whole country in thrall while endeavoring to compel us to buy their product (butter), yet they must not even make an effort to drag them into using their own product rather

The Review's Book Review

"THE DISENCHANTED," by Budd Schulberg. Random House. 388 pp., $4.

Rarely have two men, writing of the same features of life, chosen the identical characteristics of the picture they see. One will see the flowers in the garden in the full bloom of their glory and another will see the autumn leaves in the variety of shades that are the legacy of summer. In the past it was only the social reformer who wrote of where the flowers were to be found and the location he would choose for them.

Today the picture has changed. Nine writers out of ten, given the garden of life to write into a story, will choose the septic tank. The flowers and the crops, the trees and the colors are all incidental. Prominent in the perception of the majority of writers is the mystery of the dregs of nature. They see, mainly, the putrescence of what is effectively depicted as a decadent civilization. That such literature has gained an impressive following is evidenced by its popularity. It leaves this reviewer in the unpleasant situation of a pussyfoot in a gin palace. I can only echo the words of the popular song, "You can have them, I don't want them. They're too grim for me."

Budd Schulberg describes the end of an era. Manley Halliday was a successful writer of the period between the First World War and the crash at the end of the third decade of the century. His success was the guiding force of his life. There was no caution sign or stop light in his vocabulary. Living, eating, drinking, everything except working was done with every atom of energy available. Then the crash came. From an affluent best-seller he descended to a broke and broken relic of the past.

Alcoholism and poor health held him down from reaching his pedestal again. His life is drawn by means of a series of flashbacks in the dreams of a dipsomaniac. The incidents of the period are vividly drawn and every character lives through the pages. It is a strong story and an entertaining one, but it is anything but the light entertainment that the author could offer had he the mind to produce it.

I enjoyed reading it but I did not care for the aftermath, when I laid it down.—F. G. R.

Clementine Heads West

(Hamilton Spectator)

Here is another chapter in natural history that has both the teacher and the class completely baffled. It concerns Clementine, a black cat with distinctive white markings.

Mr. Robert Lundmark, of Stockton, in Chautauqua County, New York, owned Clementine. Last year, when they moved to Denver, Colorado, they gave the cat to Mrs. Louis Knoll, a sister of Mr. Lundmark, who also lived in Stockton. Then, about four months ago, Clementine vanished, leaving three kittens behind her.

A few days ago Mrs. Knoll received a letter from the Lundmarks in Denver informing her that Clementine had turned up at their house in that city and made herself at home. Clementine bore evidence of her long journey of 1,600 miles and was not in very good shape. Her white markings and little peculiar habits, however, established her identity beyond all doubt.

How did Clementine know that the Lundmarks had moved to Denver? How did the cat know it was in Denver when it reached there since it had never before been seen from its two homes in Stockton and New York? How on earth did it know where the Lundmarks lived in Denver?

English Humor

(Fort William Times-Journal)

During the talk at dinner attended by a few of the Chamber of Commerce delegates and Lakehead hosts, a short discussion on types of humor arose. In the course of it a visitor told a Winston Churchill story to illustrate a point he was making.

Two men sat in a first-class railway compartment. One was Winston Churchill, the other a venerable Englishman of the old school type.

Neither had spoken during the first half hour of their trip. Then the one man lowered his copy of The Times looked at his companion and said:

"Name Churchill?"

"Winston?"

"Yes."

There followed a long spell of silence while the questioner kept looking at Churchill, apparently in deep thought. Finally, he broke the silence, asking:

"Harrow, 78?"

"Yes."

than the more economical margarine.

Is it not high time that our law makers realized the nature of this pressure group which appears to be acting much the same way as other unsavory pressure groups, and remove every restriction from the sale of wholesome food products? To be sure margarine was legalized, after a fashion, but now it is time to remove the foolish and aggravating restrictions regarding coloration. Mr. Editor, have you tried hatching as I have done? Have you any idea of the totally unnecessary burden placed upon housewives and mothers (and bachelors) in the matter of adding suitable color to this essential food? Surely the time has come to end such a foolish restriction.

It's Human Rights Day for Them, Too

These children of United Nations staff members are getting a close look at the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which is two years old on 10 December. All nations in the world have been invited to set aside 10 December of every year as Human Rights Day and through programs in schools and community centers to pay "homage to the principles of freedom and of the dignity of man."

Reflections From the Past

20 YEARS AGO

The mixed foursomes played at Ganges on Friday last resulted as follows: 1, Mrs. W. M. Mout and W. A. McAfee; 2, Mrs. A. Elliot and Cecil Springfield. The ladies' monthly bogey competition was won by Mrs. A. English with Mrs. W. M. Mout second.

Miss E. Moses, of Deep Cove, spent the week-end at Fulford. She was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Mollet, Valley Road. Mrs. W. McAdams and her small daughter, of Victoria, were the guests recently of Mrs. McAdams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Whiting, Sixth Street, Sidney.

Pupils of Sidney school ranked as follows during the month of November: Grade VIII: Gertrude Lennartz, Gertrude Walker, Jack Gilman, Margaret Critchley, Robert Jones. Grade VII: Victorine Clanton, Arthur Neeves, Gwen Thomas, Gwen Hollands, Raymond Byers and Helen Lidgate (equal). Genevieve Ricketts. Grade VI: boys: Percy Straw, Alan Skinner, Melbourne Keyworth, Alfred Stratton, Albert Barber, Eric Graham, Jack Skinner and Walter Wilson. Grade VI, girls: June McKillican, Elsie Carmichael, Grace King, Gladys Morrey, Gertrude Marjorovitch, Mary Jackson, Hazel Everts and Mona Cowell.

Grade V: Joyce Lennartz, Margaret Mounce, Tsuyako Doi, Charles West, Bessie Stirling, Betty Booth, Robert Slater, Audrey Brethour, Bobby Deidall, Gwen King, Sonny Cochran, Beatrice Lidgate, Phyllis Booth, Stephen Jackson, Raymond Conway, Phyllis John, Marjorie LeVack, Mary Taylor, Boden Storey and Joe Thomas. Grade IV: Hazel Thomas, Eileen McKenzie, Gwen Homewood, Masao Baba, Irene Stirling, Donnie McNeil, Bobbie Mounce, Mary Ricketts, Theresa Marjorovitch, Leslie Stirling, Margaret Morrey, Gordon France, Gordon Brethour, Tommy Rigg, Edgar Jackson, Robert Stirling, George Rowbottom, Gerald Clanton, Mark Everts, Ben Wells, John Hunt and

Traffic Course For Dogs

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

In Purley, a town near London, a road safety committee gives dogs from ten-day instruction courses in how to cross streets without being hit. Apparently the plan is proving effective, for a news despatch tells of a pack of 43 dogs stopping dutifully at the side of a highway to wait for some girls to pass by on their bicycles, and then trotting across.

This, said the despatch, was after only two hours' training. Motorists in this country will be interested in the experiment—for here, as in Britain, thousands of accidents occur every year because a driver becomes panicky and loses control when his car strikes a dog, or he swerves into the ditch to avoid running over somebody's pet.

No less will dog owners be interested. Unless a dog is kept constantly on a leash or in an enclosed yard, the day must inevitably come when it will encounter road traffic for the first time. The more fortunate pets get such a bad scare from a near-miss that they are forever wary of cars. The less lucky are crippled or killed.

Big Cities Unnecessary

(Midland Free Press)

The large cities of the world are doomed. And their death was foretold before the day of the atom bomb. Militarily unsound now, they had already become socially unacceptable.

Generally a city grows because its site offers transportation advantages.

Cities originated, however, when men had no transportation worthy of the name, when foot traffic moved at three miles an hour and the horse-drawn vehicle was the standard means of moving freight.

People who worked in an office or a factory had to live reasonably close to the job. They were forced to huddle together.

With the great improvement in transportation, however, there is no longer any reason why human beings should live like that. Why do so many do it? Largely from force of habit—and they are getting over the habit.

More than one-third of Canadian aluminum production used domestically, finds its way into the construction trade.

Ted Skinner: David Stirling was not ranked. Grade III: Margaret McIntosh, Ronnie France, Buddy Deidall, Audrey LeVack, Tommy Bowers, Danny West, Edward Jackson, Everett Booth, Doreen LeVack and Edward Thomas.

25 YEARS AGO

Mrs. C. Ward entertained at her home on Queens Avenue, Sidney, on Saturday evening in honor of her son, Bert. There were 14 guests, Bert Ward, Dudley Harvey, Gordon Douglas, Henry Rankin, Stanley Coward, Ernest Jackson, John Rowton, Florence Hambley, Kathleen Taylor, Mary Thornley, Winifred Thornley, Olive Gilman and Ivy Hill.

Mrs. W. U. Pender, of South Pender Island, spent a few days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stratton, at Saturna.

Mrs. Joseph Simpson, of Hope Bay, left for Victoria on Saturday. She will undergo medical treatment in that city.

Rogers' batteryless radios; just plug in and tune in. Table models from $110 to $335. Sidney Service Station.

On Saturday evening at Harbour House, Ganges, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Crofton gave a birthday dance to about 70 friends in honor of the 19th birthday of their daughter, Diana. The rooms were attractively decorated with Christmas lanterns, bells and evergreens. P. Lowther and A. Elliot furnished the music.

C. Bassett, who has been staying at Deep Cove, the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Friday, has taken up residence in Victoria.

James Drysdale, of Mayne Island, has spent a short holiday at Murcheson's Farm, Galiano.

P. Barlow and Mr. Mowland, of Sidney, were successful exhibitors at the recent rabbit show in Victoria.

Last Friday evening the Deep Cove Social Club Hall was the scene of one of the most delightful dances of the season. Percy Ridgway-Wilson, Alan Spooner, Cyril Barker and G. O. Tucker were joint hosts. The music was supplied by Zala's two-piece orchestra and Mrs. Alan Calvert superintended the refreshments.

J. Ashley and J. Huxtable have moved to the home on Queens Avenue, Sidney, formerly occupied by J. Brown.

30 YEARS AGO

What might have been a serious accident occurred on Thursday evening when R. J. Carrier, coming down the hill on his bicycle, collided with C. Stoth. The latter gentleman was obliged to have several stitches in a cut on his forehead. He was treated by Dr. Tomlin, of Victoria.

It is announced by the North Saanich Women's Institute that at an interview with Dr. Barrow, minister of agriculture, it was learned that the minister is to give the Pound By-law of Sidney his immediate attention. Householders are constantly annoyed by cattle and horses being on the roads and streets.

M. Segnerba, who has been confined to his home in Sidney for some time, through illness, is once more around, although he is not fully recovered from his recent illness.

J. Creighton, son of Captain Creighton, late of Patricia Bay, and Mr. Dougherty, officers of the steamship, Melville Dollar, left last week for New York after spending a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. Morris, Third Street, Sidney.

G. W. Walton, president of the Sidney Board of Trade, and W. H. Davies, secretary, left town yesterday by car for Duncan to attend the annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island.

The annual bazaar of the South Saanich Women's Institute took place in the Temperance Hall, Keating last Saturday afternoon. The best decorated booth was that of Miss Gide, who was assisted by Margaret Mitchell, Lola LeVack and Hazel Lamont. Other stalls were in the charge of the following ladies: Mrs. Henderson Lawrie, Miss J. Lawrie, Miss T. Anderson, Mrs. Sutton, Mrs. Frank Young, Mrs. E. T. Lawrie, Mrs. Young, Mrs. E. T. Lawrie, Mrs. Hader, Mrs. Leven, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. McClure, Mrs. Gold, Mrs. W. Butler and Miss McNally.

Mrs. W. M. Mout and her daughter, Grace, were prevented from leaving Ganges for Vancouver last week-end by the high seas on Monday. They intend to repeat the attempt next Monday.

Mrs. Jack Sheehar is located this week for Nanaimo, where she will make her home in future.

Air Travel Safer Under New Standards

Flights over the world's air lanes are safer, simpler and more regular, thanks to the activities in 1950 of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), one of the specialized agencies of the United Nations.

ICAO's achievements have brought civil aviation to the point where, in the words of its council's president, Edward Warner, "No one can travel by air, even on a purely domestic flight, without being affected by the work of ICAO in the standardization of practice in aeronautics."

ICAO's plans for standardizing aviation practices are stated in annexes to the Chicago Convention on International Civil Aviation, which is ICAO's Constitution. All member governments agree to follow these procedures unless they specifically give notice of exceptions to them.

Eight of these annexes came into force last January. Since then three more have become effective, and four more go into effect on December 1.

This one, Annex 12, outlines a round-the-world network of search and rescue services to aircraft in distress, regardless of nationality. Such diverse units as carrel corps, alpine climbing teams and ocean weather ships would be joined in an international rescue force as a "modest peacetime counterpart" of rescue teams that saved lives of airmen in World War II.

The three annexes which came into force this year deal with air traffic services, instrument landing systems, and the cutting of red tape at international borders to speed air traffic.

The first of these is designed to guard against collision of aircraft, to ensure smooth handling of air traffic, and to standardize safety measures at all airports servicing international flights.

More than 40 nations have adopted "the greater part of ICAO's recommendations" regarding visas, travel documents, and customs procedures at international airports.

Still another annex—"Aerodromes, Air Routes and Ground Aids"—has been submitted informally to governments for comments. It would include a plan for airport approach and runway lighting, designed to lead a pilot safely on to a runway through fog or murk. A reliable system of approach lighting, together with electronic aids, would enable airmen to fly safely in weather conditions that now keep them grounded.

The provisions which came into force last January specify standard aviation practices in rules of the air, preparation of aeronautical maps, meteorological codes, and the licensing of personnel.

Change Names At Confirmation

(Peterborough Examiner)

The Church of England, we learn, has a new regulation which permits children to change their names, if they please, at Confirmation. This seems to be a humane and sensible provision, though like many laws it requires discretion in its application. A child who was christened Roosevelt, Churchill or Stalin Jones in the days of our great alliance might fittingly wish to alter his name to John Jones at his Confirmation. But what is to be done about his sister, Mary Elizabeth Jones, who wants to be confirmed under the name of Ginger Cuddles Jones? Should not some clerical persuasion be exercised to prevent her from making a great error of taste?

Unless we are much mistaken (in which case we shall be happy to receive correction) the Church of Rome permits young people to add the name of a saint to their given names when they make their communion. We have heard of spiritual advisers to veto names which, while undoubtedly those of saints, are for various reasons unsuitable when added to the existing name. Not that we favor rigidly simple names. A little fancy, a little excursion into history, or mythology or literature may produce a name which is beautiful. But a name should be brief, rather than cake; it should not cloy the tongue after using. And sensible provision for the future should be made, particularly in the case of girls.

No Variety In Bombs

(By Strix in the London Spectator)

A neighbor of mine who got a George Cross and a George Medal for taking the more abstruse types of German mine to pieces during the last war, complains that every time the international horizon darkens his friends start asking him how he is going to like disassembling atom bombs. They don't seem to understand, he says, that as far as he is concerned there won't be any difference for him personally as the consequences of failure will be exactly the same as they were last time, since the fate of being blown instantaneously to pieces is not one which can be made more unpleasant than it is already by the March of Progress.

He also told me, what had not occurred to me before, that a high proportion of the men who volunteered for his sort of duties were lured by the fact that there was virtually no risk of being wounded.

Area of the Northwest Territories is almost twice the total area of the three prairie provinces.

The Voice Of Winston Churchill

(New York Times)

We welcome the news that Winston Churchill has decided to record some of his famous wartime speeches delivered in the House of Commons and other places where transcription was impossible. To have the actual voices of the great figures of the day preserved is of obvious historic import. We would be the richer had modern techniques existed at the time, say, of the Gettysburg address, and of great singers and artists, of the past, remembered only by the written word.

Now we have the tools. However, our pleasure is dampened somewhat by the former Prime Minister's reported intention to limit access to the transcripts to a small circle of friends. Such recordings as already exist for the general public cannot do full justice to Mr. Churchill or to history. As characteristic of him as what he said is how he said it. His is one voice which, at its unique best, deserves the chance to ring down through the ages. His writings may well survive generations, for all to read. One must hope that Winston Churchill will yet see fit to afford the same chance to his voice, for all to hear.

For a Socialist Botany

(Chicago Daily News)

Socialism seems to have no friends in the plant world.

Peanuts in East Africa threw the British Socialist Government for a loss of $64,000,000 in four years and the projected three million acre goober ranch has been cut to 12,000 acres. After peanuts played the British Socialists false, sunflowers were tried this year—net loss $1,340,000.

What the comrades need is something that will plant itself like a good nutcracker ragweed. Surely Prof. Lysenko and his school of Marxist biologists should be able to evolve a fine edible Marxist ragweed to save the day for Socialism. We might find something like that useful for Truman's point four too.

The Wise Gardener

Notes From Saanichton Experimental Station

The pure line method which has been applied so successfully to corn breeding is a means whereby the defective or undesirable characteristics are eliminated from the breeding lines. This is possible through a process of selfing which involves the pollinating of the silks of a single plant with the pollen produced by its own tassels. Any other pollen is excluded by bagging the tassels before release of the pollen and the silks both before and after pollination. This inbreeding results in bringing into visible expression the characteristics inherent in individual plants without any masking of features which might result from crossing with other plants. Thus it is possible to eliminate by selection from the inbred lines any undesirable characteristics, and through further inbreeding, to purify the desirable ones. The ultimate purpose of producing these pure inbred lines is to find a combination of two which will produce a superior hybrid. Because they are used in combination, they must have the ability to combine well. Different methods have been worked out for testing lines by plant breeders.

For example it is now possible to determine the combining ability of a line after the first year or two of inbreeding, which permits eliminating it, if it falls down in this characteristic, without having to complete the purification of the line. Having obtained many desirable pure lines, various combinations are made to determine whether superior hybrids suitable for specific purposes can be obtained.

Promising results have been obtained in experiments in eastern U.S.A. in the use of Cuprinol for ridding the green algae growth on flower pots. This good news to florists will be well received by all of us who have not yet come to appreciate the job of washing flower pots before they are suitable for re-use.

In the tests which were conducted during 1949 at the University of Connecticut, 40 pots were scrubbed clean and half of these were dipped in clear Cuprinol. The dipped pots were allowed to dry for several days before any plants were placed in them. In both the dipped and non-dipped pots ten hydrangea and ten cyclamens were planted. Three months after the start of the test it was apparent that algae growth on the treated pots was almost completely prevented. Further tests with a greater variety of plants are in progress to determine plant tolerance to Cuprinol used this way and also to obtain information on the effectiveness of the treatment.

If you are interested in trying the scheme the author suggests doing so on a small scale remembering it is not known how long beyond three months the treatment remains effective, nor how wide a variety of plants will tolerate Cuprinol treated flower pots.

Each planting year throws more light on the effect of mulches on various crops. Four Bartlett pear trees mulched with hay in 1942 have yielded in eight seasons a total of 10,323 pounds of marketable fruit against 6,500 pounds from four trees under cultivation. This means an average annual increase of 478 pounds from the four trees under mulch, and on an acre basis (108 trees) this rate of increase would amount to 13,145 pounds per year.

The cannery price of grade 2 Bartlett in 1950 was 5 cents per pound or $100 per ton f.o.b. Victoria. It will be seen that so far as this single trial is concerned, mulching is shown to be very profitable. Hay or straw at about 7 tons per acre annually maintains a mulch of suitable depth.

As decomposition takes place much valuable plant food is added to the soil. Sawdust is another material that promises to be very suitable as a surface mulch, and its actual value is now being measured experimentally.

Three years ago the CBC's "Opportunity Knocks" talent broadcast, gave a coloratura soprano, Esther Ghan the break she had been waiting for. As a result of it, she was signed up for a network show called "Moon Mist," which ran through several series. Since then Miss Ghan has been featured in the Toronto Symphony "Pop" Concert and has made seven appearances on the Sunday Startime show.

In and AROUND TOWN

Mrs. Clement May, who has been hospitalized for an extended period, returned to her home at Deep Cove last week. She is still convalescent.

Mrs. O. Peterson, Queens Avenue, left recently for a visit to Winnipeg and Hamilton, Ont.

Rourke, Mr. and Mrs. A. McKiernon and daughter, Yvonne, J. Deighton, Misses Betty Townsend, Greta Moline and Jean Blissett, all of Victoria.

At a baptismal service held at St. Paul's United Church, Sunday morning, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Inkster, Marine Drive, received the names Colin Cameron. Rev. E. S. Fleming officiated.

Twelve Girl Guides attended the Christmas party held Tuesday after school at the home of their captain, Mrs. G. F. Gilbert, Third Street. A supper consisting of salads, sausage roll, jelly topped with whipped cream, was enjoyed by the young ladies. Gifts surrounding a decorated Christmas tree were presented, and the program, convened by Patricia Gray, was made up of games, singing and skits. Owing to illness, two Guides unfortunately were unable to be present.

Brentwood Quint Defeats Sidney

For the second time in as many weeks the Sidney Legion basketballers absorbed a one point defeat, this time on their home floor last Monday evening. The final score was 24-23.

In a display, which far from resembled last week's fine effort, the Sidney boys alternately stumbled, fumbled and bumbled their way through four periods of what passed for basketball. The first half, which ended with Sidney holding a seven point lead was not too bad.

What followed hardly bears telling. From the second half on both teams appeared to forget all about basketball and to be content with meditating on what Santa might bring.

The only bright spot in an otherwise gloomy evening was the checking of both teams which was very close and reasonably clean. Vernon "Suede" Jacobson's job of holding star point getter Ron Karadimas to 5 points was excellent while Schmidt's success in keeping Ron Pearson under close wraps to the tune of 4 points was equally good.

COLLIDES WITH PARKED CAR

Andrew Ostercamp, of Sidney, was injured when his car struck a parked car on the East Saanich Road at Elk Lake, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 6.

It was reported by Saanich Police that Mr. Ostercamp lost control of his car when he was blinded by the lights of oncoming vehicles. His car hit the parked car owned by Arthur C. Philpott, of Royal Oak. Damage to the two vehicles amounted to $175.

BRITAIN TO SEND 3,000 SCOUTS

A contingent of 3,000 Boy Scouts from the United Kingdom, all first class Scouts, will attend the Seventh World Scout Jamboree in Australia from August 3 to 13, 1951. They will camp with some 15,000 Scouts from all over the world. Canada plans to send one troop of 25 Scouts and three leaders.

FIFTY FESTIVE DINNERS LOOSE

When residents of the East Saanich Road on Wednesday evening, Dec. 6, observed about four dozen turkeys operating a high-way patrol of their own they communicated with the R.C.M.P. at Sidney.

Reg. and Sidney Beswick, of the Bazaar Bay Store, joined forces with John Gorton, of Gorton's Garage. Together they organized a round-up. After considerable effort and wrestling with several massive tom turkeys they cornered half a dozen in the stockroom of the store. One straggler was locked up in the garage.

It proved that a truck load of turkeys had been despatched by L. W. Marshall, of Deep Cove, to a destination in Duncan. Before the truck had left Sidney the load shifted. Unknown to the driver, turkeys were being distributed, with reckless abandon, from Bazaar Bay to Saanich.

After five hours or so of intensive searching of the roads and ditches all but half a dozen were recovered. None was in the prime condition in which it had left for market. They had all suffered bruises and cuts during their diversion.

The driver was stopped by Saanich police who gave him his first intimation of the location of his load.

sion his command was a vastly smaller ship.

The Takuli, a high speed rescue vessel, was only 70 feet long. Its construction rendered it unsuitable for long trips. Intended for high speed cruising in local waters the fuel capacity was limited.

Leaves Berth

To enable it to cover the miles from Patricia Bay to Halifax, careful planning down to the minutest detail was necessary. After many weeks of preparation the Takuli left her berth at the marine base and set sail for the Panama Canal on September 5, 1947. There were 11 scheduled calls for fuel. These included San Francisco, San Diego, Mazatlan, Manzanillo, Acapulco, San Salvador, Panama, Kingston, Jamaica, Havana, Miami, Norfolk and on to Halifax.

The detailed planning was arranged to reduce the number of calls to a minimum. That it was accurate was evidenced by the success of the voyage. The disturbing element was weather.

Weather

Since time of the first primitive coracles weather has been a dangerous factor. The air force mariners found it no less unpredictable. When they experienced a storm or a heavy head wind they were obliged to take advantage of every theory of weather lore they possessed. The vessel was seaworthy but deviations from their course, or excessive periods of battling the weather prejudiced the chances of their fuel lasting out.

After a long voyage the Takuli sailed into Halifax Harbor, a credit to her skipper's seamanship and the planning that had gone into the preparation for the trip.

Having twice left Patricia Bay in charge of R.C.A.F. ships it is fitting that Sqdn.-Ldr. Burridge should have the opportunity of becoming better acquainted with the vessels that are stationed here.

MORE ABOUT LIFE IN ENGLAND

In London a great change has come over the social life. Mr. Plant recalled that before the war, the opera at Covent Garden catered for socialites as much as for genuine music-lovers. It has now become a venue, not for those who wish to display their dresses and meet their friends, but for those who love music.

A few weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Plant attended the opera. They observed one woman and one man in evening dress. The remainder of the audience were in ordinary dress. The vast majority of the audience were wage earners.

This enthusiasm for the theatre is not confined to Covent Garden. The theatres in all parts of the country are always crowded. In every case there is a vast increase in the number of wage earners as against the more opulent play-goers. Even the heavier Shakespearean plays are greeted with a full house, when playing in such heavily-populated cities as Sheffield.

The tragedy of the British case, Mr. Plant believes is that no answer is apparent to the present economic crisis that assails Britain. Within the next 50 or 100 years no improvement can be foreseen unless some unexpected situation should arise. Mr. Plant dates the origin of the situation to the beginning of the industrial revolution in Britain, a century ago. The population of the country at that time was about half its present figure. The figure has risen steadily until today it is close to 50 millions. No appreciable increase in food production has assisted the feeding of the greater population. The state of affairs was sound and successful while there was a constant demand for finished goods in many parts of the world, reflected Mr. Plant. Today, most of the countries in the world are becoming more and more self-producing and Britain's potential markets

MANY AT FUNERAL OF SIDNEY MAN

Funeral services for the late George Robert Neeves, who passed away at the St. Joseph's Hospital on December 6, 1950, were held Monday afternoon, December 11, at 1:30 o'clock, in the Memorial Chapel of Chimes of the Sands Mortuary Limited.

Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiated, John Bell rendered the solo "The End of a Perfect Day," accompanied by George Peaker on the console of the pipe organ, and the congregation sang "Rock of Ages." The many friends in attendance testified to the high esteem in which the late Mr. Neeves was held. The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers: George Cooke, Bob Cooke, Carl Davies and Len Hogg. Cremation took place in the Royal Oak Crematorium.

are steadily diminishing. The wars of this century have not brought about the present state of affairs, he concluded, they have merely accelerated them.

Having returned home to their family, they have two young sons, the travellers can only reflect with sympathy on the troubles that assail their friends in Britain. They have found friendliness and co-operation among everyone. Mrs. Plant stated that she will be careful about complaining of odd restrictions and shortages. After life in Britain there is nothing to merit complaint in B.C.

Editor, Review,

Referring to the article in The Review of December 6, entitled "Brentwood Couple Find Civility, Courtesy Out of Date in Britain,"

We think the Brentwood couple, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bickford could do with a lesson on courtesy themselves.

It is hardly polite to visit old friends and on return to speak so unkindly and strongly behind their backs.

Probably Mr. and Mrs. Bickford would not feel so courteous either, if they had crouched in air-raid shelters and fire-watched on top of buildings with bombs falling around them, night after night for years and had to put up with monotonous food and not very much of that and also, no gasoline for their car, instead of living in safety on this lovely peninsula.

The English have never prided themselves on the cleanliness of their potatoes. Probably Mrs. Bickford will recall that green-groceries over there are not sold in cake shops, but usually in a store to themselves.

Their's is not the first article of its kind, seen in print recently, from visitors to England, and it makes us feel very heart-sick to think that any Britisher (or supposedly Britisher) can malign their native land so to the people of Canada who know little of the ordeals the British have suffered in the war and since the war.

We shall always be very proud to be English having seen with what courage and pluck and good spirits they stood up to the tragedies and difficulties of the war, and we are quite sure the English would not care to welcome Mrs. Bickford again if they had read her article.

MR. AND MRS. W. JONES.
Marshall Road,
Saanich Road,
Dec. 12, 1950.CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND
Editor, Review,

Regarding Mr. and Mrs. Bickford's comments on England, as reported in last week's Review.

My husband and I were in England during 1948 for four months, and during that time received nothing but kindness and courtesy, commencing with the customs officials at Liverpool, who went out of their way to be helpful.

It seems to me that when criticizing England a little tolerance would not be amiss, for what other country is so heavily taxed, rationed, war-weary and formidably weary?

Now, just when the people were beginning to look forward to the many amenities and luxuries enjoyed by us fortunate people in Canada, they, in view of the world situation, are faced with further austerity. Small wonder if they are disgruntled. Nevertheless, it is difficult to believe that in the two years since our visit, that England has deteriorated so rapidly.

My husband, since 1906, has made 16 visits to the United Kingdom in war and peace time, for both short and lengthy periods, and he finds it impossible to believe that the statements accredited to Mr. and Mrs. Bickford are unbiased opinions of conditions in England at the present time; and, furthermore, unlike Mrs. Bickford, I am very proud of my English heritage.

Yours truly,

(Mrs.) L. SCARDIFIELD.

Editor, Review,

Sir:

Many of us feel we cannot let the poor old "Otter" sink into oblivion so here we are again. I always thought that boat would make history! She—(or whatever the proper term for her is)—was always unique, and with all due respect to W. E. Oliver and Mr. Old-Timer (thank you for an interesting article in the last "Review") by the way, Old-Timer, there must have been two "Otters."

We always thought one "Otter" was the limit and the starting thought of two such boats is overwhelming to say the least. Anyway, away back in the 1920's—I never saw the 1800's) our "Otter" slowly wended her way between the islands and Vancouver. We would start early and arrive at our destinations at an hour depending on the amount of freight to come aboard at the many stops. There was an element of excitement among the passengers at many a port when animals were led aboard. They usually objected, and sometimes broke away, scattering people and causing confusion to the crew.

Sometimes a chicken coop would break open and then—ah! those were the days! We have tender memories of our "Otter"—did I say tender? Well, there was many a slip getting off the gang-plank or whatever they call it, and it wasn't always the memory that was tender when you picked yourself up. The "Otter", as I remember, ran during the winter months in the

FINED $35 FOR CARELESS DRIVING

Charged with careless driving, Arnold F. Hamilton, of Brentwood, was fined $35 in Saanich Police Court on Thursday of last week. His license was suspended.

It was stated that damage to his car amounted to more than $800 when it was in collision with a lamp-post at Keating Cross Road. Stating that his speed was no more than 30 to 35 miles an hour at any time the Brentwood driver pleaded not guilty. Police stated that the roads were very icy at the time and that they were obliged to reduce their speed to about 20 m.p.h. when approaching the scene of the accident.

Prize winners at "500" were Mrs. W. Tripp, Mrs. J. Nunn, T. McHarry and G. Hanson.

late '20's and the "Island Princess" took the summer runs.

How well we can remember one stormy day! (Nov. 5 or 6, about 1923?) the "Otter" came in and being slow in turning, she rammed most ingloriously on the rocks at the head of Fulford Harbor. I remember my late brother, Gerald, going to the rescue in his launch, and my brother, Bill, and I believe W. Y. Stewart, of Beaver Point?

Anyway, there were several launches and they stood by for hours in the storm with ropes trying to hold her off the rocks.

For a long time after people used to say the "Otter" went faster backwards than memorable day than she ever went forward in her sea-going life. You may sing about your "Slow Boat to China," but you should have travelled on the "Otter."

As one old-timer remarked—we never know we had to put up with her. Ah! those were the days when butter was 25c or 30c per pound, and you could get meat at 15c per pound.

Well, "them days is gone forever," and it looks as if the "Otter" has too. So I'll be off. Who else remembers the ghostly "Otter"?

ENGLISH COURTESY

Editor, Review,

Sir:

I read Mr. and Mrs. George Bickford's article of their recent visit to England with much interest and feel sure that their opinion is not shared by the majority of visitors to England: Ex-Alderman, Ed. Williams, a Cornishman, and Mr. and Mrs. Price, of Campbell's Studio, Mrs. Price being Canadian-born. All enjoyed their holidays over there.

As for the Englishman not being able to afford washing machines, refrigerators, etc., sure washing machines are more or less standard in this country spread over a 20-month payment plan, and what working man with the high cost of living could afford a refrigerator these days? After over 20 years in this country I've got a washing machine also, on the 20-month payment plan, maybe in another 20 years I will be able to get a refrigerator.

I remember Plymouth as a beautiful urban city, not untidy stores and fly blown windows. Are we so perfect out here? Before we criticize, let's clean up our own backyard. No doubt if one goes around our stores here we could find lots of room for improvement. Surely Mrs. Bickford may have noticed some stores not up-to-date but not all as was stated in your paper.

We have many English girls of a year or less residence in Canada working in our stores here who give us the best in civility and courtesy. Surely we are not to believe that they have learned that in the few months they have been here in Canada.

I am sorry that Mr. and Mrs. Bickford gained such an unfavorable impression of England as I believe that Mrs. Bickford came from Devonshire or Cornwall and after all what difference is there in the climate here than in Devon or Cornwall?

However let's hope that Mrs. Bickford will still keep her pride in being English. I am Devonshire-born, proud of it and always will be.

W. H. STEVENS.

1320 Slater St.,
Victoria, B.C.,
Dec. 10, 1950."WOULD-YOU?"
Editor, Review,

Sir:

Just a few words to add to the "Otter" controversy.

Let me, as another old-timer on the Gulf Islands, remark that your news item in this week's Review, namely "One Otter—Two Companies" conflicts with my very vivid memories of many long, and at times, none too comfortable trips on one S.S. Otter, owned and operated by the C.P.R. as late as the winter of 1930, when it used to take her as long as two days to make a round trip from Vancouver to the Islands and back. However, for a small sum one could go aboard the night before and avoid the inconveniences of her early 7 a.m. sailings and thereby shorten the long hours spent in getting to our various destinations.

Yes, she was a very far cry from the speedy and luxurious ships of today, but in fair weather or foul, we knew her to be seaworthy and even though her single cylinder steam engine seemed to continuously ask the question: "Would-you, would-you, would-you?"

MUD AND RAIN
GREET MARKSMEN

Turkey shoots in Sidney are at odds with the weatherman. North Saanich Rod and Gun Club held the annual turkey shoot on Sunday at their grounds on Beacon Avenue, Sidney. Amid rain and mud a large crowd of enthusiastic marksmen faced up to the weather from mid-morning until dusk.

Turkeys were distributed wholesale. Five festive dinners went to the winners of the lucky targets. N. Parsell, S. Udall, Bill Poupore, Mrs. B. Christian and W. E. Lumley all gained a bird of impressive size.

The following marksmen all won a turkey. They were obliged to fight for theirs: George Owens, Jack Roach, R. C. Wilson, C. Atchison, J. Zaccarelli, H. Handyside, L. Ricketts, E. Hasenfratz, Levi Wilson, G. Farmer, J. Turner, L. Horth, J. Sharp and Alec Fowler.

Eating less ambitiously but bringing home the bacon nevertheless were D. Noble, Ted Bailey, Joe Jones, H. Loney.

G. Powcott, H. Hourigan, H. Pottinger and J. Sharp were the winners of the hams.

THE REVIEW'S MARKET LETTER
(By H. A. Humber, Ltd.)

There is much talk of drastic controls to be levied against industry as well as an increase in corporate taxes. Despite this obvious threat to profits the market continued to forge ahead and is rapidly recovering the losses suffered as a result of the news of the invading Chinese Reds. Inflation continues. One U.S. speaker, addressing a meeting recently, suggested that in his opinion the cost of living this coming year in the U.S. would increase by as much as 40 per cent. This should make one leery of low interest bearing fixed income securities.

TEACHERS IN MUNICIPAL OFFICE

At a recent meeting of the B.C. Teachers' Federation Executive, a motion was passed expressing regret that the Union of B.C. Municipalities has not seen fit to support representations to the provincial government seeking legislation to permit teachers to hold municipal office. Teachers feel that the present restrictions on their activities make them, in effect, second class citizens, and find it difficult to understand why a group entrusted with a duty as important as the education of the

ROTARY CLUB TAKES STUDENTS ON SECOND TOUR

North Saanich high school students from the industrial arts class were conducted on a round-the-factory tour of the Pacific Furniture Manufacturing Co., Victoria, recently.

This was the second such conducted tour organized by the Sidney Rotary Club vocational service committee under the chairmanship of E. Vickerman—a community service project.

Transported by their instructor, N. West, and E. Vickerman, the students were conducted by the factory superintendent, A. Boorman, who very efficiently provided a detailed description of modern furniture manufacturing through all its phases—from the specially built drying kiln in which all wood used is previously and meticulously dried-out to not more than 7 per cent moisture content—through the processes of mass production cutting, planing and jointing.

The most interesting feature to all was the section preparing veneers. These are imported from the U.S.A. and to ensure that perfect matching of designs is possible whole logs are sliced into water veneers, and packed as one unit for shipment to the factory. The factory produces mainly bedroom suites, end-tables, book-cases and specialized units, which are designed on the spot by factory manager Mr. Stenner, who studied the art in Europe.

The visitors were informed that public demand now makes it necessary to change the design of furniture every three months, otherwise sales rapidly decline. Apparently this is true of all Canada except in Quebec where taste is much less fickle as to change.

The factory produces for the Standard Furniture Co. of Victoria, and other Canadian outlets.

Mr. Boorman was warmly thanked for his interesting and knowledgeable discourse and demonstrations at the end of the tour.

younger generation should not be trusted to take an active part in municipal affairs.

The resolution also expressed dissatisfaction with a procedure which requires support of the Union of B.C. Municipalities before a change of this type can be made and yet allows that body to refuse to hear delegations on such matters.

D. G. Chamberlain, president of the Teachers' Federation, stated, "Such a policy appears contrary to all basic democratic principles. If the provincial government allows the Union of B.C. Municipalities to control the introduction of this type of legislation, surely it should insist that they receive delegations of citizens who are interested in these matters."

PAVED ROAD TO MOUNT NEWTON
Paved road to the summit of Mount Newton was the subject of discussion at a recent meeting of the Saanich Chamber of Com-merce. In the past there have been many criticisms of the long and arduous climb to the summit expressed by elderly visitors. Percy E. Thorp, chairman of the Saanich School Board and president of the Saanich Cham-ber, observed that a report from the provincial department of health stated that the water at the West Saanich School well is pure. The meeting was held on Thurs-day, December 7, in the Women's Institute Hall at Brentwood. Maurice Atkins referred to the incidence of stop signs on the road between Royal Oak and Victoria. He advocated the introduction of a new sign reading, "School Cross-ing; Stop When Occupied." J. H. Smethurst and A. E. Burdon were requested to press for repairs to Verdier Avenue. The evening was called to a close after a display by Roy Wool-dridge of colored motion pictures.

FINED FOR TRESPASSING
Two hunters were remanded until Thursday of this week and two were fined $50 in Saanich Police Court last Thursday, Dec. 7, on charges of trespassing and carrying firearms on farm land. Brongle L. Brunia and Clarence O. Dunaway were fined, William Spiruk and Claude Creed were remanded. All hunters came from Victoria.
The charges were made on the basis of information laid by farmer William Taylor, of Tele-graph Bay Road, Saanich.
Dunaway was remanded for a week on a second charge of as-saulting Mr. Taylor.
It is the third time in two years that Mr. Taylor has figured in hunting charges. He was the victim of an alleged assault during the fall of 1948, when he was in-capacitated for several days.

Brentwood Concert Proves Success
The Brentwood Community Club sponsored a concert given by the North Saanich Musical Society and assisting artists, on Sat-urday evening, December 9, at the Women's Institute Hall. This concert was received with en-thusiasm by the audience, which was fairly large in spite of the bad weather.
Outstanding selections were given by Miss Vera Charlesworth, soprano, whose beautiful voice ap-pealed to all. James Matheson sang several humorous Scottish songs, and received much ap-plause. Mrs. Grace Beswick's two violin solos, and the Country Gen-tlemen Quartet were much ap-preciated. The choir also sang well-known selections, two of which were composed by their own con-ductor, E. V. Edwards. The accom-panist was S. H. Barnes.
V. C. Dawson thanked all the artists, and voiced everyone's wish when he expressed the hope that another concert would be given in the near future. The concert com-mittee consisted of the following: Mrs. V. Dawson, Mrs. R. Clemett and P. Benn.

School Pupils Conduct Meeting
A very well attended P.T.A. meeting took place at the West Saanich School on Wednesday, De-cember 6. The pupils of E. Hatch's room took over the meeting in a most business-like fashion, and needed no prompting from the sidelines.
Jacqueline Cabbage was the president, and Don Greenhalgh was secretary. Conveners giving reports were: Patsy Tildman, Char-lotte Ann Baade, Sylvia Cave.
It was announced that prizes given by the Chamber of Com-merce for choosing a name for the new municipality would be award-ed to Claudia Baade, Elaine True-man, and Lois Holloway.
Following the business meeting the children put on interesting plays, written by themselves; sang and gave recitations. Several of the pupils played piano solos. Mrs. R. Tildman played the piano for the enrol singing, which was joined in by everyone. Refresh-ments were served afterwards.

Saanichton Hoop Notes
Saanichton Basketball fans were disappointed last Saturday, as through no fault of the club, the Garrison failed to appear for a league game with the Saanichton Seniors. The first two games, however, were staged, with the Saanichton Midget boys taking on the Midget Girls, which provided plenty of amusement for specta-tors, with the boys finally nosing out the girls. In the second match, Saanichton overwhelmed the Cor-dova Bay Junior Girls' squad in an exhibition game.
Saturday night's games of this week promises to be "fun night" as three good games are sched-uled with the Seniors meeting the Navy; Juniors against the Brent-wood Intermediates; and the third game will present, for the first time, the Saanichton Pee Wee Girls, coached by two local boys, Barry Bleckford and Reg. Kerr. The Pee Wee will meet with Brentwood in their first game and plenty of action will be seen as the Saanichton Community Club Cup is at stake, and the young-sters are well aware of it. Door prizes will be featured this week to counteract last week's disap-pointment.

ESTATE OF CAPT.
WAARD SETTLED

Estate of the late Capt. Waard and his Chinese wife, Mrs. Choy Waard, was settled in B.C. Supreme Court in a recent hearing.

The two well-known Galiano residents were lost in the waters of Active Pass on Sunday, June 25. Early the following morning their power boat was seen by Norman Smaback on the Gulf side of Galiano Island. No attention was paid to the vessel until Tuesday. George Springett then went out to investigate and found no persons on board. The boat was not tied up as had, at first, been believed. It was caught up by the weights on the trailing line.

Police were immediately notified, but no positive cause was found for the circumstances.

During the following week the body of Mrs. Waard was recovered, but the captain has never been seen since.

The court pronounced the death of the captain and ruled that he died first. This assumption was made as he was the senior. Capt. Waard was 77 years of age and Mrs. Waard 61. Beneficiary is Robert Waard, a son, in Vancouver. The estate amounts to about $10,000.

Capt. Waard achieved fame in 1922, when he and Mrs. Waard sailed a Chinese junk across the Pacific. Capt. Waard had lived in the States for a number of years.

Wood spoke of her visits to the hospital and of giving small gifts to three veterans, and Mrs. Colin Moutat stated that she had sent cigarettes and other gifts this month to veterans in the D.V.A. hospital.

Poppies

Plans were made, with Mrs. Colin Moutat convening, for the purchase and sending of Christmas hampers to veterans. The president appointed Mrs. A. M. Brown and Mrs. Gerald Bullock nomination committee for the election of officers next month.

A complete report of the talent money distributed and its gratifying results will be given at the annual meeting, to be held at Harbour House, in January 9, when a full attendance of members is expected.

Eggs and Poultry
In Short Supply

Poultry market report as supplied by the Dominion Marketing Service, Vancouver, follows:

Egg receipts showed an increase of 7 per cent through registered stations in B.C. last week, with "A" large showing a substantial percentage gain. Despite this increase and early arrivals of fresh eggs from Ontario, the supply situation is very tight.

Priest held steady this week, as operators felt that with easing prices on the prairie and in the east, lower priced arrivals from those points later this month may undermine the local market.

Prevailing high prices have not affected sales to any appreciable extent, reports from large retail concerns indicating, generally, consistent turnover on all grades. Shipments to northern points have dropped slightly, on account of limiting camps begin to close down for their seasonal layoff.

The poultry market, insofar as fowl is concerned, has developed into an acute shortage position. Dealers are scouring the entire west, and points in the United States, to secure supplies, with meagre results, and with plants operating on a part-time basis, most handlers feel their fowl sales business will only be fractionally covered for some months ahead.

COLORFUL SPECTACLE AT GANGES
AMID SCOTS' MUSIC AND DANCING

The Legion of Health and Beauty achieved another outstanding success last Friday evening when, under the direction of Diana Kropinski, it sponsored the Canadian Scottish Ball and Cabaret at the Fulford Community Hall.

To the skirl of the bagpipes about 150 persons joined in the grand march, which, led by Pipe Major Andy Pollock and Pipe Major Ian Duncan, made a colorful spectacle in a picturesque Christmas setting.

The decorations of the hall, with its effective colored lighting, were carried out under the management of Mrs. Cecil Springford and Mrs. J. Mitchell, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Carvosso, Mrs. Desmond Crofton, Mrs. A. R. Price, Miss Mary Lees, Miss June Mitchell, A. R. Layard and G. and R. Heinkeley. Surmounted by an angel and large silver star, a giant Christmas tree stood at one end of the hall; long streamers of red paper and holly hung from the balcony, the former ornamented at intervals with glittering Christmas flowers and colored cones.

Three hundred gold and silver stars shone from the tree and from among the snow-covered evergreens, which decorated walls and windows. Large jars of poinsettias were conspicuous everywhere and the same flowers were massed at the base of the Roll of Honor.

Catering

The catering was under the convenship of Miss Emily Smith, assisted by Mrs. A. E. Duke, Mrs. P. Heath, Mrs. Donald Jenkins, Mrs. L. Parham, Miss Muriel Harrington and Miss A. Van Pelt. An apple studded with springs of holly and fir formed the unique and very attractive centerpiece for each white-covered supper table, the decoration of which was in the hands of Mrs. L. Bowden. Those assisting in serving refreshments were Mrs. E. Reynolds, Mrs. A. Nobbs, Mrs. Cyril Wagg, Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. M. Gyves, Mrs. Fergus Reid, Miss Gladys Shaw and high school students.

Prior to the floor show, George Heinkeley, president of the Salt Spring Legion, welcomed the visitors and thanked Mrs. Adeline Duncan for coming to the island and bringing with her her troupe of dancers from Victoria.

The six young exponents of Scottish dancing: Heather Duncan, Priscilla McNeale, Joy Russell, Jean Robertson, Joyce Clarke and Donald Marrs, charmed Salt Spring with their delightful dancing of "Shaelan truibhas," "Lochabar Broadsword," "Highland Whisky," and "Highland Fling." The whole performance, which was of a high standard, was splendidly received by an audience which appreciated, not only their excellent dancing, but their kindness in coming and helping so greatly towards the success of the entertainment.

Broilers are arriving in fair quantities and moving promptly. With the B.C. turkey import ban now lifted, ample supplies are assured for this market.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Butterick to Reside in Sidney After Portland Honeymoon

St. Paul's United Church, decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Muriel Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Clarke, Amelia Avenue, became the bride of Sidney Charles Butterick.

Howard Vine played the wedding music and before the bride entered Frank Aldridge sang, "I'll Walk Beside you," and during the signing of the register "Because" was rendered.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a white gown fashioned with bouffant nylon net skirt over satin, lace top and lace jacket with pointed collar and lily point sleeves. Her finger tip veil of illusion net was held by a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Saanich Doctor Is Called By Death

Dr. Charles Robert Worthington, of Saanich, was called by death on Thursday, Dec. 7. He was patient in the Veterans' Hospital in Victoria. Dr. Worthington, who was 73 years of age, was born in England. He had resided in Saanich for the past nine months. Prior to that time he was a resident of Nanaimo.

He is survived by his sister, Miss D. M. Worthington, of Brentwood, and his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, of Newport, Mon. was a patient in the Veterans' hospital, England.

Funeral services were held at the Memorial Chapel of Chimes, Sands' Mortuary, Ltd., on Tuesday, Dec. 12, when Padre G. D. Kendall officiated. Interment followed in the Veterans' Cemetery, Esquimalt.

A PENNY TO THE GOOD

William Steel, of East Saanich Road, is a penny to the good. While in conversation with Cecil Moorehouse, of Mary's Coffee Bar, Mr. Steel was shown a "phony" cent piece. The face was intact, as was also the edge. The obverse side of the coin had been turned out on a small lathe. Mr. Moorehouse deplored the industry that had gone into the defacement of the coin.

Mr. Steel recognized the penny immediately. It was one of about four that Mr. Steel's father made some ten years ago. The coins had been made into lockets. The metal was turned out to leave a hollow space and a lid soldered onto the missing side.

The late William Steel, Sr., was a jeweller in Kent, Wash. Upon having made the lockets, he accidentally spent one as a genuine coin. This was the missing locket. The interior had been lost and the soldered lid was missing.

Mr. Steel supports the contention that a bad penny is certain to turn up.

Welfare Workers Wanted

Unless the rate of training social workers is sharply expanded, developing military preparations and civil defence plans may "undermine the existing social services," according to a Canadian Welfare Council report made public recently.

Not only are new demands being made upon the relatively small number of trained social workers in Canada, but the shortage of workers for ordinary social services was never more acute, the report states.

The ever increasing cost of training social workers is making it difficult for the country's eight schools of social work to expand their facilities as much as demand requires, the report prepared by the council's committee on personnel, adds.

The report urges the Canadian Welfare Council to discuss fully with the Department of National Health and Welfare ways to meet the demand for trained workers.

FURTHER NEGOTIATIONS NOT EXPECTED
There is no indication of the resumption of Anglo-Danish negotiations over the price of butter in the coming year. In some Danish quarters there is a disposition to accept the fact that an increase in price will not be achieved and, if not, to turn to the production of other milk products at the expense of butter.

Miss Wyn Plummer, bridesmaid, chose a pale blue shot taffeta for her gown with matching head-dress. She carried pink roses and chrysanthemums.

A. Ferguson, of Tod Inlet, was groomsmen and ushers were Bert Butterick and Ted Clarke.

Pleasing Reception
Mrs. Clarke gown in navy blue crepe with corsage of pink carnations, and Mrs. A. Baldwin in green crepe with corsage of pink carnations, welcomed the guests with the young couple. The three-tiered cake decorated with yellow roses and flanked by light-colored pink tapers, centred the lace covered table. The toast to the bride was given by Rev. E. S. Fleming, who officiated at the wedding ceremony.

Leaving for Portland, the bride wore a grey gabardine suit, navy coat and grey accessories. Following the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Butterick will make their home in Sidney.

EVERYTHING IS HERE IN B.C.

"Canada is going into a very promising period if the present international situation clears up."

Speaking of the lack of pride shown in Canadian achievements, Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works, told the North Saanich Progressive Conservative Association on Monday evening, that irrespective of criticisms hurled at this province and its roads there is every reason for British Columbians to look back on great achievements in every field.

"You can get everything you want in British Columbia in the way of living conditions. Anything you may want, you can get in B.C.," he concluded.

PARTY HONORS BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. C. Reader was hostess on Saturday evening, Dec. 2, at a party honoring Miss Ida Heatherington, whose marriage to A. McManus will take place on Dec. 16.

The rooms were prettily decorated with bows of bronze chrysanthemums.

Upon her arrival the guest of honor was presented with a corsage bouquet of pink carnations and deep pink roses, and a green electric table lamp with a white silk shade.

The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. E. Simington and Mrs. C. Bilton. Among those present were: Miss Heatherington, Mrs. G. Bilton, Mrs. E. Simington, Mrs. R. Hewett, Mrs. A. J. Mollet, Mrs. L. Barrett, Mrs. F. Hollings, Mrs. J. Hall, Mrs. E. Mortenson, Mrs. J. Fraser, Mrs. W. MacLean.

DEATH SEVERS LINK WITH PAST

A link with Saanich's past was broken on Dec. 8 with the death in Victoria of W. F. C. Pope at the age of 81 years. He was a native of Oregon City, Ore., and had resided latterly at Cowichan Bay.

The deceased is survived by three sisters and one brother, Mrs. J. M. H. Harding of Vancouver; Mrs. George Adams, of Burton, Wash.; Miss Gilsie Pope, of Santa Barbara, Calif.; and Harold, of Kamloops.

The late Mr. Pope was a son of S. D. Pope who taught for a number of years in the original South Saanich School near Keating. Later he was appointed superintendent of education for B.C.

The funeral was conducted from St. John's Church, Victoria, on Monday. Because of the long association of the deceased with the Masonic Order, members of that craft were well represented. Interment was in the family plot, Ross Bay Cemetery.

The following members of the Saanich Pioneer Society attended the rites: George Michell, Mrs. William Michell, G. Elmor John, John Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. White and Mrs. Lorna E. McKenzie.
